Total Store Communications

How to Grow Sales and Improve the Customer Experience by Optimizing Communications Along the Entire "Path-to-Purchase"

KING-CASEY REPORT

These reports are intended to provide valuable insights regarding best-practices and innovative solutions that have been successfully implemented by restaurant and foodservice brands.

OVERVIEW & OBJECTIVES

McAlister's Deli is an American chain of fast casual restaurants founded in 1989 in Oxford, Mississippi by retired dentist Dr. Don Newcomb. There are currently over 500 locations in 28 states.

McAlister's brought in King-Casey to develop a "Total Store Communications" strategy and guidelines that would support and leverage their menu strategy and business objectives. Specific goals for the strategy were to increase McAlister's sales and profits and improve the customer experience.

PRINCIPLES OF ZONE MERCHANDISING

OBJECTIVES

Business Objectives

What are your brand's specific business objectives for this zone?

Example: In the "street zone", a business objective might be to draw more customers into the restaurant.

Customer Objectives

What are customer behaviors and objectives in this zone?

Example: Customers may be looking for an incentive to come in, such as a good deal or to try a new offering.

MESSAGE

Message Content

What are customer behaviors and objectives in this zone?

Example: Customers may be looking for an incentive to come in, such as a good deal or to try a new offering.

DESIGN

Physical Element

What is the physical nature (structure/hardware/media) of communications in this zone that best communicates the message?

Example: We might consider lawn signs, window decals, or a message on the exterior reader board.

Graphic Design

What does it look like? This includes graphics, decor, photography, displays, etc.

Example: For the "street zone" we know consumers only have a few seconds to read a message, so graphics must be simple and quick to read.

TOTAL STORE COMMUNICATIONS STARTS WITH LEVERAGING EVERY CUSTOMER ZONE IN THE RESTAURANT ENVIRONMENT

While the menuboard itself is arguably the most critical communicator in McAlister's restaurants, there are many additional opportunities along the customer path-to-purchase (P2P) to reinforce McAlister's menu messaging and influence customer purchase decisions. That's because every restaurant is a series of different customer zones (entry zone, pre-order zone, order zone, pick-up zone, dining zone, etc.) In each zone, customers have different needs, attitudes and behaviors. In addition, a brand should have different business objectives from one zone to another. What's communicated from one zone to the next should be determined by these customer needs and the brand's specific business objectives.

King-Casey developed Total Store Communications solutions by identifying the key customer zones within McAlister's store environment, and then, by determining customer needs in each zone, and finally establishing zone-specific business objectives along the entire path-to-purchase. The result is a Total Store Communication strategy that drives desired business outcomes and delights McAlister's customers.

The diagram (above) identifies the typical zones within a McAlister's restaurant. Identifying all of these customer zones is a critical first step when establishing a Total Store Communication Strategy.

A Path-to-Purchase Zone Merchandising Guidelines Manual (right) was created to document specific strategies and merchandising guidelines that optimize business performance and improve the customer experience. Visual examples of relevant zone communications were created for McAlister's to follow as they developed new in-store communications -- now and in the future. The result is a Total Store Communication solution that is helping drive business outcomes and delight McAlister's customers.

The Entry Zone (above) is used to suggest-sell high priority items (to increase ticket), and to promote special offers (to increase trial and traffic).
